## Why Dental Implants?

When a tooth is lost, the jawbone beneath it begins to deteriorate without the stimulation that a tooth root provides. Dentures and bridges sit on top of the gum and do not address this bone loss. Dental implants - titanium screws placed directly into the jawbone - replicate the function of a natural tooth root, preserving bone and providing a stable, permanent foundation for a crown.

The result is a replacement tooth that looks, feels, and functions like the real thing.

## Dental Implant Services at Core Dental Glenferrie

## The Implant Process

Assessment Your dentist will assess bone volume, gum health, and overall suitability. Digital X-rays and scanning provide the detail needed for precise planning.

Implant Placement The titanium implant is placed into the jawbone under local anaesthetic. Happy gas is available for anxious patients.

Healing (Osseointegration) Over 3-6 months, the implant bonds with the surrounding bone - a natural process called osseointegration.

Final Crown Once healing is confirmed, a custom-crafted crown is attached to the implant, completing your new tooth.

## Are You a Good Candidate?

Most healthy adults are suitable candidates. Key considerations include: - Sufficient bone density (bone grafting can address deficiency) - Non-smoking or willingness to quit (smoking significantly increases failure risk) - Good general health - Healthy gums

## Frequently Asked Questions

**How long do dental implants last?* With proper oral hygiene and regular professional care, dental implants can last 15 years or more - many patients enjoy decades of trouble-free use. The titanium implant itself is designed as a permanent fixture; the crown on top may need replacement after 10 to 15 years.

**Is the implant procedure painful?* Dental implant placement is performed under local anaesthetic and is generally well-tolerated. Some soreness and swelling for a few days after surgery is normal and managed with over-the-counter pain relief. Sleep dentistry (IV sedation) is available for particularly anxious patients.

**How long does the full implant process take?* A conventional implant involves placement, followed by 3 to 6 months of healing (osseointegration) before the final crown is attached. Same-day or immediate implants are available in selected cases. Your dentist will provide a timeline at your assessment.

**Am I a suitable candidate for implants?* Most adults with good general health are suitable candidates. Adequate bone density is required, though bone grafting can build this up where needed. Smokers face a higher risk of implant failure and are advised to quit before treatment. A full clinical assessment - including imaging - determines suitability.
